Watch a video about how we describe people

"Learning how to describe people and their appearance helps us communicate more clearly, build stronger relationships, and express ourselves effectively. It allows us to notice details, show appreciation, and understand others better, which is key to positive interactions in everyday life."