SIMPLE PRESENT TENSE

Simple present tense is used to describe actions or situations that are regular, habitual, or generally true. The following are the functions of simple present tense;

1. General Truth

General truth means absolute truth. It means things whose truth is certain and generally known.

Example: Water freezes at zero degrees.

2. Habits

Habit means something that is done continuously and consistently.

Example: My father goes to work every weekdays.

3. Instruction

Instruction means command. For example, there are signs that we often see on the road. In addition, there are also instructions that we can find on product packaging.

Example: Do not enter this area!

4. Fixed Schedules

Fixed schedules are something that is scheduled, but not be repeated.

Example: The show starts at 7 pm.

Pattern:

(nominal)

(+) subject + to be + complement

(-) subject + to be + not + complement

(?) to be + subject + complement + ?

(verbal)

(+) subject + verb1 + complement

(-) subject + do/does + not + verb1 + complement

(?) do/does + subject + verb1 + complement + ?

Note:

- So, for subject I use to be → am and verb → do or verb without the s/es suffix.
- Meanwhile, subject you, they, we, and plural subject use to be → are and verb → do or verb without the s/es suffix.
- Finally, subject she, he, it, and singular subject use to be → is and verb → does or verb ending in s/es.

Example:

(nominal)

(+) You are tall.

(-) You are not tall.

(?) Are you tall?

(verbal)

(+) He goes to school.

(-) He does not go to school.

(?) Does he go to school?
