Cooperation Cause & Effect

Name: _____ Date: _____

Read each scenario carefully and thing about the uncooperative behavior being described. What are the effects of showing that behavior? Think about how it affects the people and environment around it.

As the school bell rings, a new student walks into the classroom. His name is Tirion, and he's never been to this school before. The other students in the class seem interested and kind, except for one boy, Jack. Jack won't speak to Tirion and refuses to work with him on a project.	The effects of this behavior are:
During a group project in art class, the teacher hands out markers to each group member, and Lily refuses to share hers. She tightly grips her markers and insists she needs them all for herself, leaving the rest of her group members without the necessary tools to do the work.	The effects of this behavior are:
In the middle of math class, the teacher introduced a fun new game for everyone. The students would need to take turns solving math problems on the board, and the first player to get the correct answer would get a point. When they started playing, Timmy refused to take turns and kept shouting out answers without giving anyone else a chance to solve them.	The effects of this behavior are:
The science teacher assigned a group project to research and present on recycling. However, Alex refused to do any of the work. Alex sat on his phone, ignored the others' requests for help, and didn't bother researching any information for the project. As a result, the other two students had to do all the work themselves.	The effects of this behavior are:

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Cooperation Cause & Effect

Name: _____ Date: _____

Read each scenario carefully and thing about the uncooperative behavior being described. What are the effects of showing that behavior? Think about how it affects the people and environment around it.

As the school bell rings, a new student walks into the classroom. His name is Tirion, and he's never been to this school before. The other students in the class seem interested and kind, except for one boy, Jack. Jack won't speak to Tirion and refuses to work with him on a project.	The effects of this behavior are:
During a group project in art class, the teacher hands out markers to each group member, and Lily refuses to share hers. She tightly grips her markers and insists she needs them all for herself, leaving the rest of her group members without the necessary tools to do the work.	The effects of this behavior are:
In the middle of math class, the teacher introduced a fun new game for everyone. The students would need to take turns solving math problems on the board, and the first player to get the correct answer would get a point. When they started playing, Timmy refused to take turns and kept shouting out answers without giving anyone else a chance to solve them.	The effects of this behavior are:
The science teacher assigned a group project to research and present on recycling. However, Alex refused to do any of the work. Alex sat on his phone, ignored the others' requests for help, and didn't bother researching any information for the project. As a result, the other two students had to do all the work themselves.	The effects of this behavior are:

LIVEWORKSHEETS