Craverton Ratios to Business as Usual

— Brianna Wible, Staff Reporter

A power outage yesterday caused a number of businesses and area attractions in downtown Cavenon to close. The cause of outage is still unknown, but the early morning's stormy weather most likely played a part. ---[1]---

Sung Min Nam, who was leading a tour of some of the historic site downtown, changed his itinerary. "Fortunately, I know the area well," Mr. Nam said. "I led the group back to the bus and we headed to a different part of the city to discover alternative sites, such as Grantwood Park and Holtrop Towel." ---[2]---

For the Craverton Art Museum, the outage did not make a difference in earnings because its galleries are closed to the public on Tuesdays. ---[3]---. Craverton University canceled its classes. But generators powered residence halls and cafeterias. Power was restored to most area businesses by late yesterday afternoon. ---[4]---. And today Craverton return to business as usual.
