

Two powerful health foods

Chili peppers are a type of fruit from the Americas. They were first used 6,000 years ago! Today, people all over the world, from Mexico to Thailand, use chilies in their cooking. Chili peppers taste good, but they're also good for us. They are high in¹ vitamin C. This keeps you healthy. Many chilies are also spicy. This spice gives you energy. It also makes you less hungry, so you eat less. Doctors think chili peppers can stop some kinds of cancer, too.

Licorice, a type of plant, comes from southern Europe and Asia. Today, when people hear the word licorice, they think of candy. In fact, licorice is in some sweet foods (like candy) and drinks (like soda), but it is also a very old medicine.² Two thousand years ago, people used licorice for colds and other illnesses. Today, it is still in some cold medicines. People also use it for stomach and skin problems. And now doctors think licorice—like chili peppers—can help people with cancer!

Red licorice candy has no real licorice in it. Black licorice is much healthier!

¹ If something is high in vitamin C, it has a lot of vitamin C.

² Medicine is something you drink or eat to stop an illness.
