My trip to Paris

Three visitors to the city of Paris talk about their trips

Sandy

I had a lovely four-day trip to Paris with my friend. It rained some of the time, so we couldn't do everything we wanted, which was a shame. But we had one sunny day, when we went on a really interesting river tour through the old city. On the other days we walked around museums and ate in fantastic restaurants. Our hotel was far from the centre, so we used the metro a lot. It's easy to use and cheaper than a taxi for two people.

Maxine

The Paris hotel my family and I stayed in was good – except for the restaurant. We walked a lot at first, but one rainy day we took a taxi. It was cheaper than four metro tickets – I couldn't believe it! The best day was when we walked around the Louvre with a guide. It was a great way to see everything in the museum. I'm already thinking about another Paris trip. Maybe we'll have better weather next time!

Barbara

My husband and I chose a hotel right in the middle of Paris, because we didn't want to use the metro or expensive taxis. It was the right thing to do, but because at work I sit down all day, my feet were tired after three days of museum tours and sightseeing! It rained a lot, but that wasn't a problem – Paris is always beautiful. My husband wants to return, but I'd like to try somewhere else for my next holiday.

Part 3

Questions 14 – 18

For each question, choose the correct answer.

Mia Smith – travel photographer

My job is to photograph people and places for magazines. I have to travel around Africa, and often I go to Namibia, because my husband's parents live there. I love Namibia more than any other country, and I never leave my family's house there without my camera. I want to photograph all of the interesting things that I see there.

My favourite photo was taken in the Namib desert. My husband and I stopped our car to talk to an old man by the road. I asked if I could photograph him, and he invited us to his home. He was one of the last desert Bushmen, living in the old, traditional way. Every time I look at the picture now, I think what an amazing experience it was meeting him.

I love to photograph people, but I also enjoy photographing nature. You might think trees and mountains always look the same, but they don't. One day, I sat on a rock for hours, looking at the mountains and the sun above them. Every minute the light made them look different!

When I travel for work, I only pack jeans, t-shirts, my camera kit and my phone – nothing else. A heavy suitcase just makes life difficult. If you'd like to take some photos next time you visit a new city, remember that the most interesting things happen on the street. It is best to walk – don't take the bus. And all you need is a cheap mobile phone. Most of them take great pictures.

- 14 What does Mia say about Namibia?
- A Her husband wants to go and live in Namibia.
B There are lots of things to take pictures of in Namibia.
C She goes to Namibia more often than to any other country.
- 15 Mia's favourite photograph
- A took a long time to plan.
B is of her husband in a car in the desert.
C helps her remember a very special day.
- 16 What does Mia think about photographs of nature?
- A It takes a long time to get the photographs right.
B It is more difficult to take photographs of nature than of people.
C Nature is good to photograph because it is always changing.
- 17 When Mia travels for work, she
- A packs a wide variety of clothes.
B doesn't take much luggage.
C carries extra camera equipment.
- 18 What is Mia's advice to a new travel photographer?
- A Go around on foot.
B Travel with someone.
C Take an expensive camera.
