PART III: READING COMPREHENSION (5.0 POINTS)

I. You are going to read an article about the art of storytelling. Five sentences have been removed from the article. Choose from the sentences A-F the one which fits each gap (1-5). There is one extra sentence which you do not need to use. (1.0 point)

The art of storytelling...

Writing stories is a craft that is crucial for life. And if the government insists, you can test it, measure it, and use it in commerce, too.

A report in The Times recently quoted a secondary school teacher who complained that their Year 7 intake no longer knew how to tell a story. "They knew what a fronted adverbial was, and how to spot an internal clause, and even what a preposition was but when I set them a task to write a story, they broke down and cried", reported the teacher.

The fact that no importance is placed on storytelling makes me very frustrated not only because it puts so little value or emphasis on children's creativity, but also because storytelling is more than simply an art. (1) _____. Politicians should know this better than anyone. What is "Vote for us and the country will be strong and stable" if not a story? Everything made of words is a story - from the stories we tell ourselves to the ones we watch on TV to the ones we relate to work colleagues at the water cooler.

(2) _____. Contrary to the widely-held belief, creative writing is not just "making stuff up". Certainly, there are those who can do it instinctively. But what everyone on both sides of the debate seems to be missing is that storytelling can be taught and tested. I know that, because I teach it, albeit at an adult level.

People say children are natural storytellers, but this is not at all true, any more than it is of adults. Or rather, they are not naturally good storytellers. Most stories by children, although they may be charming, are boring because they are just one unconnected event after another. (3) _____.

For stories to work, a whole array of measurable principles can be applied. We shouldn't be asking children about fronted adverbials, but about act structures, character arcs, and the qualities of protagonists. What is the difference between real speech and fictional dialogue? What constitutes a dramatic event? The list goes on and on. And all these features of the craft of storytelling can be taught and tested in the same way as grammar. This would be so much more valuable than parroting parts of speech.

(4) _____. Let's instead tell them what they want to hear, and say, "Yes, you can teach storytelling and you can test it and measure it and it's an immensely valuable tool, for commerce (if you're so obsessed with that) as much as anything else".

Storytelling in its way can have just as much complexity as music or mathematics. That we don't really understand this craft - or that this is a craft - is partly because of the romantic myth of "inspiration" put about by authors as much as anyone. It is taught in creative writing degrees. (5) _____. Why, for instance, is the popular children's book We're Going on a Bear Hunt such a compelling story? And what has it got to do with stories like Macbeth? (And yes, it does have something in common - all stories do.)

This is a fascinating, fruitful subject, and to a large extent, quantifiable. We should incorporate it into the classroom in a way that will satisfy both sides of the debate. In this way, there can be a happy ending to what has so far been a very sad story.

- A. But it can be simplified enough to appear on the school curriculum as well
- B. The reluctance to include story-writing on the school curriculum is because of a fundamental misunderstanding
- C. It should be no more difficult than teaching grammar.
- D. In other words, they make no sense and have no direction or point.
- E. It is a crucial skill for life and commerce.
- F. So we should not be wasting our time accusing the government of wanting us all to be joyless grammar robots.

II. Read the text below and decide which option A, B, C or D best fits each gap. (2.0 points)

The changing earth

Although the earth was formed about 4,500 million years ago, human beings have inhabited it for less than half a million years. Within this time, population has increased hugely and people have had a vast (1) _____ upon the earth. They have long been able to put the forces of nature to use. Now, with modern technology, they have the power to alter the balance of life on earth.

Reports back from the first astronauts helped dispel the dangerous (2) _____ that the world had no boundaries and had limitless resources. (3) _____ ecologists have shown that all forms of life on earth are interconnected, so it (4) _____ that all human activity has an effect on the natural environment.

In recent years, people have been putting the environment under stress. As a result, certain (5) _____ materials such as timber, water and minerals are beginning to run short. Pollution and the (6) _____ of waste are already critical issues, and the (7) _____ of the environment is fast becoming the most pressing problem (8) _____ us all. The way we respond to the challenge will have a profound effect on the earth and its life support (9) _____. However, despite all these threats there are (10) _____ signs. Over the past few decades, the growth in population has been more than matched by food production, indicating that we should be able to feed ourselves for some time yet.

Eat Better, Look Better

Would you believe that your diet can make a big difference in keeping a youthful appearance? It seems strange to think that the food we take in could result in fewer wrinkles. Wouldn't it be better to put things on our skin rather than in our mouths? Well, according to one scientific theory, our bodies start aging because of oxidation. This is caused by certain oxygen-containing molecules in our cells, called free radicals. Free radicals have the capability to attach to and damage parts of our cells, including our DNA. Our bodies have the ability to repair this damage. However, as we get older, these repair mechanisms start to break down, resulting in signs of aging, such as wrinkles. Free radicals are actually produced by our bodies, but their numbers can also increase because of the food we eat.

Besides avoiding foods that could potentially produce more free radicals, eating foods that contain certain vitamins and micro-nutrients can also keep us looking young. These vitamins help produce molecules called antioxidants, which actually help reduce the production of free radicals. Even better, foods containing antioxidants are not rare. Common antioxidants, like vitamins A and E, can be found in many dark-colored vegetables. For example, carrots, seaweed, spinach, and broccoli are all excellent sources of these helpful vitamins. Also, you can eat orange-colored fruits like apricots and peaches. Vitamins A and E are particularly good for helping your skin remain young-looking. These nutrients strengthen your skin and make it soft. However, if you really want to stock up quickly on nutrients that benefit your skin, you should eat cow's liver. One small piece of cooked cow's liver contains twice as much vitamin A as half a cup of cooked carrots.

More recently, green tea has also been tentatively added to the list of youth-promoting substances. Research on green tea's effects on our bodies is still in the early stages. Scientists certainly believe that it is good for us, but they are cautious about predicting its ability to keep us looking youthful. However, recent experiments seem to show that green tea's antioxidant properties can repair cell damage already sustained as well as prevent damage in the future. In fact, green tea works even better if you apply it directly to your skin as an ingredient in facial cream.

“You are what you eat.” The more we find out about how our bodies work, the more this old proverb seems to be true. Think about that the next time you sit down at the table.

1. What is the main idea of the reading?
A. Our bodies are aging. B. Carrots are good for us.
C. Food affects aging. D. We should use facial cream.
2. Which is probably true about people who look younger than their age?
A. They eat a lot. B. They drink green tea every day.
C. They eat food that helps their skin. D. They only eat vegetables.
3. What kinds of vegetables contain a lot of vitamin A?
A. Tasty ones B. Vegetables dark in color
C. Green ones D. All of them
4. Which of the following is true, according to the reading?
A. Drinking alcohol helps your skin.
B. Facial cream with vitamin
C. Cow's liver has a lot of bad a lot of vitamin A.
D. We age because we eat vitamins.
5. Which word is closest in meaning to the word "apply" in this reading?
A. Ask for B. Be related to
C. Spread on D. Use well
