Hi Sis Geeta,
I'm happy that you are coming for mum's 50th birthday function. You asked me what gift mum would like. Mum has recently joined some baking classes. She was telling me that her old baking scale has broken. She wants to buy a digital baking scale so that she can weigh the ingredients with more accuracy. So I'm sure you will know what to get for her.

4. From the message we know that Geeta
- A has already attended her mum's fiftieth year birthday function.

Hi Rakshy,

I'm delighted to know that you have already booked your ticket to Malaysia from New Zealand. You said that you will be arriving at KLIA 1 airport on 20 January.

I'm happy that you will be coming to my house straight from the airport and not visit your aunt as you have earlier planned.

Could you please confirm your arrival time? I will be waiting with my dad to pick you up.

Warmest regards,
Darren

6. Darren sends the email to

Do you feel dull, tired and uninspired when you study? Why don't you listen to music?

There are many benefits of listening to music while studying, but it has to be the right kind of music. It must be soothing and relaxing in the background. Research has shown that music can help you focus better on whatever you are studying. You will feel relaxed and motivated to study longer. Besides, it can improve your memory and make the process of studying much more enjoyable.

7. Research has shown that listening to music while studying can
   A make you feel bored and sleepy.
   B distract you from concentrating on your studies.
   C encourage you to study longer and remember better .
