

1	to landfill	a	to enter someone's property without permission.
2	at every increasing levels	b	to manage to make a small amount last longer than usual.
3	be licensed for	c	shockingly bad or excessive; very surprising in a negative way.
4	during the intervening time	d	the process of burning something, producing heat and light.
5	ask for the moon	e	to quickly reach the maximum amount that can be held or managed.
6	it leaches into the ground (from)	f	to officially declare that one cannot pay debts and seek legal protection from creditors.
7	to trespass	g	wasteful or excessive use of resources, especially money.
8	to eke out	h	continuously rising amounts or degrees of something

9 the proof beyond a reasonable doubt

10 profligate habits/spending

11 bleak future

12 combustion

13 to cut back on sth

14 livelihood

15 dual benefit

16 to file bankruptcy

17 pernicious

i a legal order that requires someone to do or stop doing something.

j having a harmful effect that is not easily noticed or understood.

k a facility where waste is burned at high temperatures to reduce its volume.

l involuntary contractions of the diaphragm that cause sudden sounds when breathing.

m evidence that leaves no logical reason to question its truth.

n to have official permission to do a particular activity or job.

o an advantage that provides two positive outcomes or effects.

p to work energetically to oppose or fight against something.

q higher than normal amounts of a toxic chemical that can harm health.

18 in all its glory

19 to actively campaign against

20 elevated levels of
dioxin

21 incinerator

22 injunction

23 to fast-reach
capacity

24 hiccups

25 outrageous

r in the period between two events or situations.

s it slowly moves through soil or other materials,
often carrying substances with it.

t a situation that appears hopeless or lacking in promise.

u to dispose of waste by burying it in the ground.

v to reduce the amount of something you use or spend.

w showing something at its best or most impressive state.

x the way in which someone earns money to support themselves and their family.

y to request something that is impossible or extremely difficult to obtain.