

Determiners some • a lot of • any

- A: Is there any bread?
 B: No, there isn't any bread.
 A: Is there any cheese?
 B: Yes, there's some cheese.
 A: Are there any noodles?
 B: Yes, there are a lot of noodles.

We use any in questions and negative (no) sentences.

some

some juice
(uncountable)

some oranges
(plural countable)

a lot of a lot of juice

(uncountable)

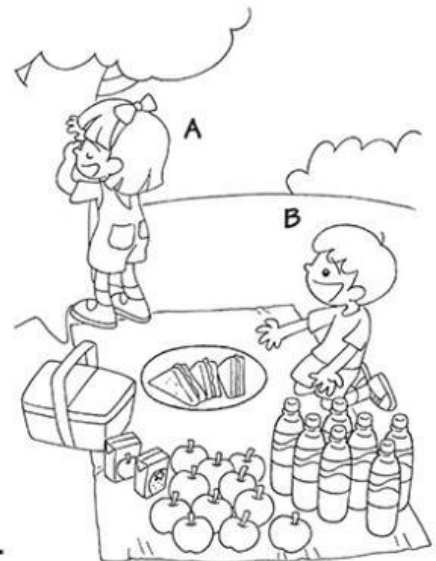

a lot of oranges
(plural countable)

Practice

A Fill in the blanks with 'some', 'a lot of' or 'any'.

- A: Is there _____ orange juice?
B: Yes, there's _____ orange juice.
- A: Is there _____ water?
B: Yes, there's _____ water.
- A: Is there _____ milk?
B: No, there isn't _____ milk.
- A: Are there _____ sandwiches?
B: Yes, there are _____ sandwiches.
- A: Are there _____ bananas?
B: No, there aren't _____ bananas.
- A: Are there _____ apples?
B: Yes, there are _____ apples.

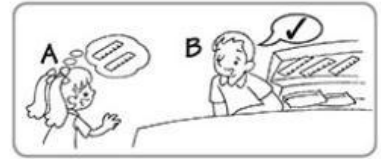

Date: _____

Practice

B Complete the conversations.

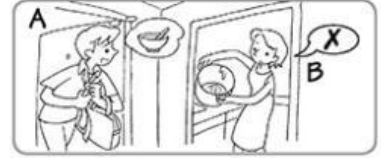

1 A: Are there _____ rulers?

B: _____, there are _____ rulers.

2 A: _____ congee?

B: _____, there isn't _____ congee.

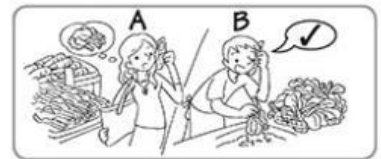

3 A: _____ onions?

B: _____ onions.

4 A: _____ vegetables?

B: _____ vegetables.

5 A: _____ rice?

B: _____ rice.

Grammar in Context

Complete the passage. Follow the example.

This is the Smith family. They are working on their farm. There ① _____ is some _____ jam. There ② _____ cherries.

③ _____ orange juice. There

④ _____ eggs. ⑤ _____ cows.

⑥ _____ milk.