

Click on all the verbs in the lyrics that show future meaning (e.g., will, going to, present continuous for future events)

Someday we will shine under the brightest lights,
The world will know our name by Friday night.
We're going to write a song that speaks the truth,
And dreams are coming alive in this vocal booth.
Our fans are waiting in every town we pass,
We're going to play a show that no one will surpass.
The stars above will hear our every sound,
And we will rise, higher from the ground.

We will speak through chords and strums tonight,
Our music is changing wrong into right.
They are going to feel what we've felt inside,
When the chorus hits, there's nowhere to hide.
The stage will shake with power and pride,
And we will leave our fears behind.