The alarm clock rings early and the astronauts get up. They get dressed and they have breakfast. Eating in space is funny. Everything floats around! After breakfast they brush their teeth and start work.

Michael's job is to observe the planets through a telescope, and he takes photos. He learns a lot about space. He is busy all day.

After work, the astronauts write emails or they exercise. Then they have dinner and later they watch DVDs. Finally, they go to bed. It is difficult to sleep because you can't lie down.

Sometimes the astronauts go outside the space station. They call this spacewalking. They wear special suits when they go for a spacewalk.
