6 Read the e-mail and answer the questions.

Jackie,

How are you? I hope everything's OK. I've had a terrible week. I started using the internet a bit, as you suggested. I found this great chatroom and I met this boy called Tom. He's into computers and computer games and he thinks that I am too. Now he wants me to send him a photo of myself by e-mail - how do you do that? It turns out he lives in Liverpool too and he wants to meet me at a cybercafé he knows. And he thinks I'm seventeen and I've got blonde hair. I don't know what to do. You know that I don't know anything about computers and I've never played one of those games in my life! I'm sure if I tell him the truth, he'll be furious - or he'll think I'm really silly. If I send him my photo, he'll find out that I'm not blonde, but if I don't send him my photo, he might think I'm not interested.

The thing is, I really want to meet him because he sounds lovely and he hasn't got a girlfriend! He likes canoeing and skiing and they're my favourite sports. What do you think? Should I tell him the truth?
