

Conversations

Directions: You will hear a conversation between two or more people. Choose the best answer to each question.

1. According to Emily Yoffe's analysis, what personality trait most clearly defines Hillary Clinton's Myers-Briggs type?

- (A) A distaste for rigid schedules
- (B) Introspective sensitivity
- (C) Detail-oriented leadership
- (D) Idealistic communication style

2. What does Yoffe suggest is a defining characteristic of Barack Obama's type, the "Champion"?

- (A) Preference for improvisation over planning
- (B) High value placed on authenticity and words
- (C) Interest in operational logistics
- (D) Desire to lead corporations

3. What contrast does the audio make between idealists and supervisors?

- (A) Idealists are more analytical, while supervisors are emotional.
- (B) Supervisors are rare, while idealists are common.
- (C) Idealists are movement leaders; supervisors run organizations.
- (D) Supervisors avoid public speaking; idealists rely on it.

4. Which of the following statements about promoters best reflects Yoffe's description of John McCain's personality type?

- (A) They are introspective and analytical.
- (B) They prefer structure and consistency.
- (C) They are strategic thinkers focused on long-term planning.
- (D) They are action-oriented risk-takers.

5. What does Yoffe imply about the likelihood of the three candidates' willingness to take a psychological test?

- (A) Clinton would be most interested due to her love of structure.
- (B) Obama would likely be open to it because of his introspection.
- (C) McCain would insist on taking it to prove a point.
- (D) All three would equally value the insights it provides.

6. Which broader point does Yoffe make about personality types and political roles?

- (A) Political success is unrelated to personality.
- (B) Certain personality types are naturally drawn to executive roles.
- (C) The Myers-Briggs test is not useful for political analysis.
- (D) Leaders should undergo psychological testing regularly.