The Pickling Pig – Reviews

I'd like to be able to say that the Pickling Pig is as good a place to eat as it's always been. However, on my last visit, I was disappointed with many aspects of the meal. Once we arrived at the restaurant, we were asked to wait in the reception area until we could be seated. I had made a reservation a week earlier, so our table should have been ready for us. The explanation they gave us was that the previous party of five people had decided to have desserts, drink coffee, and stay for a long after-dinner chat. Even so, having tables available should not be the customer's problem.

Finally we were seated and ordered our food. My usual order of fish with red pepper and ginger sauce was not as good as it usually is. The fish was overcooked and dry, while the sauce had been over-seasoned and was too salty. The steak that my wife ordered was acceptable, but I have to say we won't be going back to the Pickling Pig for a while.

Caio

What a delight! We went to this charming little restaurant to celebrate my birthday. The food was delicious, the service was great, and the atmosphere was charming. I recommend the shrimp in garlic butter, which was amazing! My only complaint is that it was difficult to hear each other at our table. Because it's small, the Pickling Pig is noisy and loud. Maybe that's because there was a large party nearby. Next time we'll go back on a week night.
