

Read the passage "How I Controlled My Online Spending Habit" carefully. Then, answer the following multiple-choice questions. Choose the best answer (A, B, C, or D)

My name is Lily, and I used to spend too much money shopping online. It became a serious problem when I started buying things I didn't even need. I felt excited whenever I found new items on sale, and I would quickly add them to my cart and check out without thinking.

At first, it felt fun and harmless. I enjoyed the thrill of receiving packages every few days. But soon, I noticed that my room was full of things I hardly used. I also realised that my bank account was getting lower and lower each week. I was spending more than I earned, and it started to worry me.

My older sister noticed what was happening and talked to me about it. She helped me understand that shopping could be dangerous if I wasn't careful. She advised me to write down everything I bought and check my spending every week. She also told me to unsubscribe from shopping websites so I wouldn't be tempted.

Now, I only buy what I really need. I have learned to ask myself if something is necessary before I buy it. I feel much more in control of my money. In the future, I hope I can guide others who struggle with the same problem.
