

A Visit to Buenos Aires

READ THE TEXT CAREFULLY

Some days before the pandemic, Anna visited Buenos Aires. She wanted to see her old classmate, Clara, who she hadn't seen in many years. When Anna arrived, the city was quiet, and many people were staying at home. She felt a bit sad because everything looked so different.

While Anna was walking through the empty streets, she remembered the lively Buenos Aires she knew before. Clara welcomed her warmly. While they were drinking tea, Clara started telling funny stories from their childhood. They laughed about the time they got lost at the zoo and the day they tried to cook for their parents but burned everything.

As Clara was speaking, Anna smiled. Although the situation was hard, Clara's stories made her feel better. They spent hours talking about their families, old teachers, and classmates. That visit reminded Anna of the importance of friendship and happy memories.
