Barcelona Football Club's Youth Academy is a special school for boys who want to be professional players one day. The students' day starts at 6.45 in the morning. They get up, have a shower, brush their teeth, and get dressed. They have breakfast at 7.15. They haven't got a lot of time because at 7.30, there is a bus to take them to school. They have normal classes and the first lesson is at eight o'clock. The boys have lunch back at the Academy at two o'clock in the afternoon. At three o'clock, they are free, but sometimes there are special talks and visits from professional players. Normal lessons start again at 3.30. The students have English, maths and science classes. The school day finishes at 4.30, but that is not the end of the day for the Academy students! At five o'clock, they have football training until 6.30. At eight o'clock, the boys have some free time. At the weekend, they can play video games, use the internet or play basketball. Dinner is at nine o'clock. After dinner, the boys are free again until bedtime at 10.30.
