

WIFE: Would you like another cup of coffee?

HUSBAND: No, thanks. No I'll think so.

WIFE: Is there / There is anything interesting in the paper?

HUSBAND: Well, there's something about a prison escape.

WIFE. Oh, really.

HUSBAND: Yeah, a couple of guys escaped from the State Prison in a grey van.

WIFE: Hmm. Does / Do we know anyone with a minivan?

HUSBAND: A minivan? What colour it is / is it?

WIFE: I don't / doesn't know. Light blue, maybe, or grey. I don't can / can't see very well.

HUSBAND: Where is this / these van?

WIFE: It's parked right in front of the house and there is / are two guys in it.

HUSBAND: Oh, really.

WIFE. Now they're getting out of the van.

HUSBAND: What are / do they look like?

WIFE: Well, one man's ..... and I think he has .....; he's wearing a baseball cap.

HUSBAND: How about the other one?

WIFE: He's ..... He's got ..... Now they're coming up the driveway.

HUSBAND: Sarah, you keep watching. I'm going to call the police.

WIFE: I think that's a good idea.

HUSBAND: What are they doing now?

WIFE: They've stopped in the driveway and they're just looking around.

HUSBAND: About how ..... are they? Do / Can you tell?

WIFE: Well, the tall one looks like he's about 20 / 30, I guess the short one's in his late 30s / 40s. Well, Dave now they're coming up the door. Hurry!

HUSBAND: It's all right, Sarah, help is coming.

WIFE: Wait a minute. You can really see them now. Oh Dave, the short one is your ..... George!

HUSBAND: My cousin George?

GEORGE: Hey! So, this is the right adres / address. It's a long since I've seen you I wasn't sure.

HUSBAND: George! What on earth are you doing here?

WIFE: Please, come in /on.

GEORGE: We were passing through town and decided to stop and say hello. You haven't seen Don here since he was a baby.

DON: Hi!

WIFE: Well, it's great to see you both again! Dave, I think you should make that phone call, don't you?

HUSBAND: Sure! Please excuse me a minute.

WIFE: Dave will be right back. Come in and sit down / dawn.
