

What is your purpose for doing something? We have two ways to express that in English, and they mean different things (even if sometimes it's subtle)!

Look carefully at these two pictures, and choose the best answer.

We took the little train because...

_____ ... it was too hot for walking.

She put herself in the cage...

_____ ... for highlighting poor animal conditions.

_____ ... it was too hot to walk.

_____ ... to highlight poor animal conditions.

“We went to the pub for chatting with friends.”

“We went to the pub to pay our bill.”

Both of these sentences say that you went to the pub, so to express purpose why does one use the infinitive with “to” while the other uses “for” and the -ing form?

One emphasizes the ONGOING ACTION as the purpose, the other emphasizes the END RESULT as the goal. Choose:

infinitive with “to”
·or·
“for” + -ing form

- 1) “For + -ing form” expresses the... ____ ONGOING ACTION ____ END RESULT
 - 2) “Infinitive with to” expresses the... ____ ONGOING ACTION ____ END RESULT
 - 3) There’s a clue in the “for + -ing form” option. Use the pull-down menu, and choose:

Can you choose? -- Sometimes the situation is more logical with one than the other, but, yes, sometimes you can choose depending on what you want to emphasize!

4) If you choose the “for + -ing form” in this one, what do you want to emphasize?

“She uses her app for checking her flight instead of checking the board.”

Use the pull-down menu and choose the right answer:

5) If you choose the “infinitive with to” in this one, what do you want to emphasize?

“She uses her cell phone to check her flight.” Use the pull-down menu & choose:

6) Which is correct? “This sculpture is great...

a) ____ ... for taking fun pictures.”

b) ____ ... to take fun pictures.”

c) ____ (both are correct, depending on your emphasis)

7) Which is correct? “If you want _____ this 1997 sculpture of “Man at Work” by Viktor Hulik, you have to go to Bratislava, Slovakia.

- a) _____ to see
- b) _____ for seeing

8) Why?! (DON'T PEEK, FIRST! 😊) Use the pull-down menu to choose:

9) “_____ this tavern sign in Dürnstein, Austria, you need a little bit of luck.”

- a) _____ “For seeing...”
- b) _____ “To see...”
- c) _____ (both are correct, depending on your emphasis)

So, how did you do with the two ways to express purpose in English and the two different meanings?! Try these two, again!

Look carefully at these two pictures, and choose the best answer.

We took the little train because...

She put herself in the cage...

_____ ... it was too hot for walking.

_____ ... for highlighting poor animal conditions.

_____ ... it was too hot to walk.

_____ ... to highlight poor animal conditions.
