

TA10. U5. Reading 1

Text 1: Daily Life in a Modern Family

In today's busy world, family life can be challenging. However, when everyone shares responsibility, things become easier. In many families, both parents work, so housework must be shared fairly. For example, one person might cook dinner while the other does the washing-up or laundry. Children can also help by taking out the rubbish or doing other small tasks.

Being a homemaker is not easy—it includes cleaning, cooking, and sometimes heavy lifting. But it brings many benefits, such as creating a warm and clean home for the whole family. A spotlessly clean house is not always possible, but keeping things tidy can make life more comfortable.

Families should also take time to strengthen their bond. Having dinner together, talking about each other's day, or helping one another cheer up after a bad day can make a big difference. It also teaches children the value of love and support.

Children learn not only from what parents say, but also from how they behave. Good manners, being truthful, and showing gratitude are all lessons learned at home. Parents should try to be good examples.

In the end, family life isn't perfect, but when everyone works together and shows care, it becomes a happy place to grow.

1. What helps make family life easier?
 - a. A big house
 - b. Only one person working
 - c. Sharing responsibility
 - d. Hiring a cleaner
2. Who can take out the rubbish?
 - a. Only the mother
 - b. The father
 - c. The children
 - d. No one
3. What is a homemaker's job?
 - a. Earning money
 - b. Teaching at school
 - c. Driving the kids
 - d. Taking care of the home
4. What does a clean house bring?
 - a. Extra money
 - b. Benefits
 - c. More laundry
 - d. More rubbish
5. What does having dinner together help?
 - a. The family bond
 - b. Make more money
 - c. Damage the table
 - d. Avoid cooking
6. How can children learn values?
 - a. From books only
 - b. From TV
 - c. From neighbors
 - d. From parents' behavior
7. What shows good manners?
 - a. Speaking loudly
 - b. Saying thank you

- c. Watching TV
 - d. Avoiding family
8. Why should we cheer up each other?
 - a. To strengthen the bond
 - b. To ignore problems
 - c. To stop working
 - d. To avoid laundry
 9. What is one benefit of sharing tasks?
 - a. A happier home
 - b. More rubbish
 - c. Less talking
 - d. A bigger family
 10. What does the word "truthful" mean?
 - a. Funny
 - b. Honest
 - c. Rude
 - d. Lazy

Text 2: Roles and Respect in the Family

Every family is different, but in all homes, each person has an important role. Sometimes, one person is the breadwinner, earning money to support the family. Another might be the homemaker, taking care of the house and children. Both roles are important and should be respected equally.

Doing daily routine tasks, such as buying groceries, cooking meals, or folding laundry, shows love and care. These jobs may not be exciting, but they help the family stay strong. Children should be taught to take part and show gratitude for what others do.

Family members should also speak with respect and show good manners. Being truthful helps build trust. Even when problems happen, speaking kindly can avoid damage to relationships.

Family life can be stressful. When someone is sad, others should try to cheer up that person. Giving emotional support strengthens the family.

Parents should teach children the value of hard work and honesty. A strong character is shaped at home. Doing small jobs, saying thank you, and helping siblings can all build this.

No one likes to do the washing-up or take out the rubbish, but doing so shows that you care. These small acts help create a spotlessly clean and happy home.

In the end, love, respect, and teamwork make a family strong.

1. What is a breadwinner?
 - a. A cook
 - b. A person who buys bread
 - c. A person who earns money for the family
 - d. A teacher
2. What do routine tasks show?
 - a. Anger
 - b. Love and care
 - c. Boredom
 - d. Laziness
3. Why should family roles be respected?
 - a. To win a prize
 - b. For fun
 - c. To avoid work
 - d. Because they are all important
4. What builds trust in a family?
 - a. Doing homework

- b. Being truthful
 - c. Cooking
 - d. Buying gifts
5. How can families avoid damaging relationships?
- a. By speaking kindly
 - b. By shouting
 - c. By staying silent
 - d. By ignoring problems
6. What does support mean in this text?
- a. Giving money
 - b. Helping emotionally
 - c. Buying gifts
 - d. Asking questions
7. What helps shape a child's character?
- a. Expensive toys
 - b. School only
 - c. Family lessons and daily actions
 - d. Cartoons
8. What are good manners?
- a. Eating loudly
 - b. Saying thank you
 - c. Yelling
 - d. Taking without asking
9. What does taking out the rubbish show?
- a. Care and responsibility
 - b. Anger
 - c. Laziness
 - d. Fear
10. What does "spotlessly" mean?
- a. A little dirty
 - b. Unclear
 - c. Full of spots
 - d. Very clean