Right Brain or Left Brain?

What do Leonardo da Vinci, Paul McCartney, Napoleon, and John McEnroe have in common? They are all left-handed. Today about 15 percent of the population is left-handed. But why are people left-handed? The answer is in the way the brain works.

The brain has two halves-the right half and the left half. The right half controls the left side of the body, and the left controls the right side of the body. So right-handed people have a strong left brain, and left-handed people have a strong right brain.

The two halves of the brain are about the same size. But each side controls different things. The left side controls language, math, and logic. When you memorize the spelling of words, or when you put things in order, you use your left side. The right side of the brain controls your love of art, color, music. It is also good at recognizing faces.

This does not mean that all artists are left-handed and all accountants are right brain, and some left-handers have a strong left brain.
