

Paragraph 6

Robots are no longer just ideas for the future. They are already working in real classrooms to help teachers and students. While robots may not replace teachers completely, they are becoming useful partners in the learning process. With the help of technology, schools can reach more students and improve the quality of education.