Profile: The musician Lorna Frank

My fans often ask me, "Were you going to be a musician?" And I reply "No, I wasn't." I wasn't going to be a musician at all. I only sang in my bedroom. I was too shy to sing in public. I would say, "I'm going to be a DJ, like my mum!" Then my grandpa bought me a guitar for my birthday. I was twelve. A year later, I started to sing. I had lessons twice a week after school. Later, I went to university to study music. Now, I'm a guitarist, a vocalist and a songwriter. When I was at university, I wrote a song and performed it in my bedroom. Then I put it on the internet and people liked it. Now I play at festivals all around the world.
