It was the last day of my summer holiday in Spain. I was staying with my family in the south of Spain. It was a ① very nice location with lots to see, such as a ② very big castle and a ③ very interesting museum. Every morning before we started our busy day, I would get up early and go to the market to buy fresh fruit and vegetables. So, I became friends with the market traders who were pleased to see me and greeted me with friendly smiles.

So, on that day I had my camera with me and I asked some market traders to stand together for a photo. 'Of course!' they replied and they got ready for me to take the photo. I was looking through my camera and walking backwards when suddenly, I felt my legs slip. I fell to the ground and at the same time knocked a stall over. All the produce went flying into the air and fell on top of me. But it wasn't fruit. It was thousands of ④ very small fish and they were all over me. I was ⑤ very dirty.

I went as red as a beetroot! Everyone in the market burst out laughing which made me feel ⑥ very angry. In the end, I saw the funny side of it and started laughing too. I gave the man at the fish stall my camera and he took a photo of me covered in fish. I laugh every time I look at that photo and now I don't think it was a ⑦ very bad experience after all.
