Helping the Disabled

Every Malaysian should try to greet the disabled (0) in smiles to make them feel welcomed in the community. Local authorities should make (1) them compulsory for all new buildings and complexes as well (2) for infrastructure to incorporate facilities and amenities (3) meaning for the disabled, elderly and sick people. Allowance should be paid to those who care for the (4) disable. The same allowance can be given directly to the less disabled (5) which can take care of themselves yet whose disabilities prevent them (6) in working. We are fortunate that many welfare homes have made good progress (7) under the years in caring for the disabled and in the process, making it possible (8) to them to lead a more fulfilling life within the community. In actual fact, the welfare of the disabled depends on the families and charitable agencies as well as public donations with government grants.
