A Strange Day at the Castle

I woke up at 1_____ in the morning and had already ate breakfast. From my window, I could 2_____ the endless ocean beyond the castle walls. It was a beautiful sight, so I decided I must go away. I would write a note later.

I walked a long distance. I could 3_____ a horn blowing, a sound I knew came from the royal guard over here. A 4_____ on horseback came into view, his armor shining like silver under the moonlight of the approaching night. He said, "We have found a new hunting ground. Would you like 5_____ come with us?"

I agreed. When we got to the spot, there was a huge deer. The hunter aimed, but at the last minute, he missed. The deer was safe. I felt a sense of relief.
