Amelia's Big Dinner Party

My friend Amelia loves to cook. She has a big kitchen and often tries new recipes from books or the internet. She says cooking helps her relax after school.

Last weekend she invited eight friends to her house for dinner. She started cooking early in the morning.

First, she made vegetable soup with carrots and potatoes and baked fresh bread, so the whole house smelled wonderful. Some friends are vegetarian, so Amelia prepared a salad with tomatoes, cucumbers, olives, and cheese. She also cooked a spinach and cheese pie. For her friends who eat meat, she roasted chicken with herbs and garlic.

She made a curried rice dish with nuts and raisins and also cooked pasta with tomato and basil sauce. Everyone said the rice was amazing and the pasta tasted like in an Italian restaurant.

For dessert, Amelia baked a big chocolate cake and small fruit tarts with apples and pears. The table looked beautiful and was full of food.

When the guests arrived, they ate, talked, and laughed together. Everyone enjoyed the dinner and said Amelia was a wonderful cook. She felt very happy and promised to organize another dinner party soon.
