Poetry
Old Spot

Old Spot was a dog of a curious breed.
He would lie like a log and would pay no heed;
His eyes would shut and his head would nod,
And his tail stuck out like a fishing-rod.

But the moment his master cried, "Spot, Spot, Spot!"
He went for the stray cats and the pace was hot;
Yes , a loyal dog was Spot at his best,
But the cats were glad when he was laid to rest.
