 "I've Found a Better Way to Travel" The Best Trip I've Ever Had

Last year, I went to Chiloé with two friends. We stayed in a small eco-lodge near the coast. Every day, we walked to town and bought food at the local market. We also took a tour with a Mapuche guide.

Since that trip, I've changed the way I travel. I've stayed in eco-lodges, I've eaten local food, and I've supported small businesses. I haven't booked big hotels anymore. I've learned that tourism can help communities—if we make the right choices.

It wasn't the most expensive trip, but it was the best one I've had.
