A NEW LIFE!

Have you ever had a really special time in your life? Well, I'm having one now because I've just started university! I was really looking forward to it and, so far, I haven't been disappointed! My principal worry before coming was: would it be easy to make new friends? It's a good question because, when you go to uni, you have to start from zero. The old friends you used to see at home aren't there anymore, so you need to create a completely new social life. Well, I'm glad to say that things are turning out really well. I'm living in a hall of residence, which is a special building just for students. It's the ideal place to be in your first year because you're surrounded by new faces! And everyone's keen to make new friends.

Studying at university feels very different from how things used to be at school. Although there were a lot of students at school, there are over 100 students at my lectures. At school, we would have the chance to ask questions and to discuss things with our teachers. Now you just sit down and take notes! Another big difference is that I only have 12 hours of lectures per week (I'm studying law). The rest of the time I spend studying alone. That can be quite difficult because you need a lot of discipline! And there are plenty of other, more interesting things to do!

I've settled down really well to university life. There's just one 'small' problem: I need to study more!
