

TIP

When a vowel is sounded alone in a word, it usually forms a syllable by itself, as in an • i • mal. When a word ends in a consonant + le, divide the word before that consonant, as in ve • hi • cle. These syllabication rules, and those you have already learned, will help you to spell and pronounce the list words.

Isnt ita beutiful day,
To stroll on the lawn and play croquet?
Its really quite artistik,
To see a ball go through a wicket.
You can feel the elektrik force,
As you hit your opponents ball off course.
All the players look so serius,
While the spectators look so curious.
Another game is about tostart—
Rememmber, the game of croquet is an art!
