

Definition: A person who plays or composes music, often professionally.

Definition: The group of people who watch or listen to a performance or event.

Definition: A raised platform where performers present their work.

Definition: The area behind or out of view of the audience, where performers prepare.

Definition: The scenery and props used to create the environment for a play or performance.

Definition: The clothing worn by an actor or performer to portray a character.

Definition: Cosmetics and materials used to change or enhance a performer's appearance.

Definition: A large group of musicians playing various instruments together..

Definition: Play, song, dance or other entertainment for an audience.

Definition: To practice a performance before the actual presentation.

Definition: The person who leads an orchestra or choir during performances and rehearsals.

Definition: A group of dancers organized to perform together under a director or choreographer.

Definition: A series of performances in different locations over a period of time.

Definition: The place where an event or performance takes place.

Definition: Activities or performances that provide amusement or enjoyment.

Definition: A large group of people gathered together.

Definition: The mood or feeling of a place or event.

Definition: A group of musicians who play popular music together.