

Choose the correct expressions of quantity. Sometimes more than one is possible.

some / any / many / much / a few / a little food	a lot of / lots of / many / much / a few / a little luggage
some / any / many / much / a few / a little money	a lot of / lots of / many / much / a few / a little drinks
some / any / many / much / a few / a little books	a lot of / lots of / many / much / a few / a little potatoes
some / any / many / much / a few / a little films	a lot of / lots of / many / much / a few / a little fruits
some / any / many / much / a few / a little shopping	a lot of / lots of / many / much / a few / a little oranges
some / any / many / much / a few / a little family members	no / a lot of / lots of / many / much / a few / a little cars
some / any / many / much / a few / a little coffee	no / a lot of / lots of / many / much / a few / a little bread
some / any / many / much / a few / a little bread	a lot of / lots of / many / much / a few / a little information
some / any / many / much / a few / a little policemen	no / a lot of / lots of / many / much / a few / a little bottles
some / any / many / much / a few / a little plates	no / a lot of / lots of / many / much / a few / a little trousers
some / any / many / much / a few / a little scissors	no / a lot of / lots of / many / much / a few / a little stones
some / any / many / much / a few / a little homework	no / a lot of / lots of / many / much / a few / a little series

Choose the correct expressions of quantity. Only one is correct in each case.

1. There are knives in the top drawer.
2. Have you got paper to write on?
3. I have money left. I can't afford this car.
4. I have money. I can buy that cheap house.
5. There are round stones here. of them have sharp edges.
6. You can see progress in the matter. Most officials refuse to assume responsibility.
7. There are scissors on the table. There are enough for everybody.
8. There are pancakes left. I'm afraid, there won't be enough for lunch.
9. We can't find accommodation. of the available accommodation was booked a year in advance.
10. If you have luggage put it in the car boot.