Was It Good Luck or Bad Luck?

It was raining heavily when Hana woke up late for school. “Oh no! What bad luck!” she cried as she rushed to get ready. Her alarm clock had stopped working during the night because of a power cut. She missed the school bus and had to walk in the rain, her shoes splashing through puddles.

On her way to school, Hana noticed something shiny on the ground. It was a wallet! She picked it up and saw an identification card inside that belonged to Miss Aina, her English teacher. “Wow, I can’t believe this,” Hana said. “Maybe this is a sign of good luck.”

When Hana finally reached school, she was wet and tired. She went straight to the staffroom and returned the wallet to Miss Aina. Her teacher was so surprised and thankful. “Oh, Hana! I’ve been looking everywhere for this. You just saved me!” she said with a big smile. She even gave Hana a small notebook as a thank-you gift.

Later that day, the principal made an announcement praising Hana for her honesty. All her classmates clapped for her, and Hana couldn’t stop smiling. On her way home, she saw a beautiful rainbow stretching across the sky. “Maybe today wasn’t bad luck after all,” she thought. “Maybe it was good luck in disguise.”
