Questions 1–5

My big day out

My brother and I have always loved amusement parks, and we used to visit our local one regularly with a good friend when we were younger. Sadly, it's now gone. However, last September, we discovered that a new park had opened on the other side of Cairo and that it had the best rollercoaster ride ever. Immediately we knew we had to go.

At the beginning of the school holiday, we set a date. The big day came. Luckily, Dad was able to take us there. When we arrived, the first thing I noticed was how busy it was. Still, it was probably the last opportunity we had as there were only a few days left before the start of the new school term. The park was always open later on Fridays and Saturdays but, in mid-tourist season, as it was then, it was impossibly crowded at those times.

We headed straight for the rollercoaster, to be there before the queue got too big and before people with more expensive tickets started to go ahead of us. Then the wait for the ride began. The attendant didn't know what he was doing and was directing people to the wrong places. But finally, it was our turn. Higher and higher we slowly climbed until we were right at the top and could see the entire park. Although it was for less than a second, we seemed to be sitting on the edge forever. Then, without warning, we were shooting down and the ground came rushing up at us. It happened so fast, all I saw was a blur of colour and there was screaming all around me. Amazing! Another turn and then the world spun upside down. Around and around we went. But then, before I knew what was happening, it was all over! I couldn't believe it. I looked at my brother and he was the sickly shade of green I felt. Then slowly, a smile came across his face. 'Go again?' I nodded.
