John's First Airport Experience

Last week I flew from London to New York, it was my first trip alone. I was nervous, but excited too! The day started when I took a taxi from my hotel to the airport. The taxi journey took 10 minutes and cost £10. I was happy to pay for it because the journey was quick and more convenient than the bus or train.

I arrived at the airport 3 hours before my flight. I arrived early because I did not want to miss it. When I entered the airport terminal, I followed the signs to the check-in desk. I waited in a queue for 15 minutes before I spoke to an employee at the check-in desk.

The employee was polite and helpful. She asked me some questions about my luggage and travel plans. Then, she asked to see my passport and ticket. The employee entered my details into the computer, then printed my boarding pass. The boarding pass had all my flight information on it. I put my boarding pass, passport, and ticket safely in my bag.

After checking in, I went through security. I was nervous when I went through because everybody was very serious. The security employees checked my bag, and I went through a metal detector. Luckily, I did not have any problems!

I went to the duty free shops, where there were many different products at low prices. I bought a jacket to prepare for the cold weather in New York. I loved shopping in the duty free shops because I saved a lot of money!

Then I went to the departure lounge, where I waited for 45 minutes. I listened to music and read a book while I waited. After 45 minutes, I walked to gate 14 to board the plane. I showed my passport and boarding pass to the airport employees, then boarded the plane. The plane departed on time, so I was very happy!
