Food Groups

There are five main food groups, and each group has its functions and nutritional value.

Carbohydrates like bread, pasta, potatoes, cereals and rice are the main source of energy for the body. They also give us essential fibre, calcium, iron and vitamins.

Fruit and vegetables consist of apples, oranges, carrots, pears, broccoli ... They give us lots of vitamins and chemicals which help us stay healthy. They also contain fibre to keep our digestive system healthy.

Milk and dairy products such as milk, yoghurt, cheese and other dairy products give us protein and calcium and some vitamins like B12 and vitamin D. Dairy products keep our bones and teeth strong.

Animal and plant protein include meat, fish, eggs, nuts, beans, peas, lentils and soya. They provide us with protein, iron and some other minerals and vitamins. These help the body to grow and repair itself.

Fats and sugars like butter, margarine, oil, cream, chocolate, crisps, soft drinks, sweets, jam, cakes, pudding and biscuits give us a lot of energy but not many nutrients.
