WHAT'S your job?!

What do you want to do when you are older? A lot of young people want to be a doctor, or an architect, or a photographer ... but there are a lot of much more unusual jobs you can do. Have a look at what these people in the USA do for a living!

Jacqui

I fix broken bodies, but I don't work in the healthcare sector – I work in a shop! I'm a teddy bear surgeon. Some teddy bears are very old and valuable and they sometimes get broken or damaged. Tomorrow I'll be sewing an arm and a leg onto a teddy bear that's more than a hundred years old! You have to be very careful and calm to do it well. I'm a creative person, but I don't like making teddy bears – I prefer repairing them. I'm good at my job.

James I used to work in banking, but then I got a very different job. Now, I'm a professional queuer. Some people hate standing in queues, so they pay me to do it for them! Next Thursday I'll be queuing to buy some tickets for a concert, and I might have to wait all day. You have to be very patient to do my job, but I don't find it boring. I enjoy it because I'm very sociable and curious. I love talking to other people in queues and finding out about their lives!

Nadia

Are you a brave person? You need to be brave to do my job! I work as a snake venom extractor. Venom from snakes such as cobras is used to make medicine. If you get a snake bite and go to hospital, you might need this! I love working with animals, so I enjoy my job. This week I'll be extracting venom from three different kinds of snakes. It's dangerous, but I'm always calm and careful, so I'll be fine!
