IS YOUR CAT PLOTTING TO KILL YOU?

Don't get me wrong. I love pets. I wouldn't hurt an animal ¹ in a million years. The thing is, would they say the same about us? When your kitty is lying in front of the radiator in a state of complete happiness, is she dreaming of being a tiger in the jungle, hunting wildlife ... or hunting you?

How to tell if your cat is plotting to kill you? is the subject of a book and an online feed, and it is the funniest site ² on earth. Owners take pictures of their pet when it clearly has murder in mind. Notice that look of annoyance on your cat's face? Oh yes, watch out!

The book is extremely funny, and I've started looking at my cat, Cloud, with new eyes. If she's plotting to kill me, what would she do if my hamster escaped in the living room? Cloud would be ³ a thousand times more dangerous to a little orange thing like that. One false move and my hamster would quickly see its Facebook® status change from "pet" to "snack." I'm starting to think that perhaps it's only our size that keeps us alive.

C 2 Complete what these pet owners said with a form of the word in CAPITALS. Listen to check.

- 1 Pet ownership isn't easy, but it's a wonderful experience. OWNER
- 2 I love cats because they're so affectionate. AFFECTION
- 3 I think almost everyone in this neighborhood has a dog. NEIGHBOR
- 4 We didn't know anything about keeping a pet iguana, but the salesperson at the pet shop was very helpful and explained everything to us. HELP
- 5 The countryside is the best place to have a horse because you have the freedom to ride wherever you want. FREE
- 6 Ricky taught his parrot to speak, and now it's incredibly talkative. It doesn't shut up! TALK
- 7 We've lost the tortoise! It's Cathy's fault. She's always so careless. This time, she left it alone in the garden, and now it's disappeared! CARE
- 8 Having a dog has brought us so much happiness. I can't imagine life without our furry friend. HAPPY

D Make it personal Complete this sentence so it's true for you.

Smart phones: a curse for all generations?

Many parents give their kids a smartphone as a form of babysitter, even during family meals. However,

(1) _____ for parents to think carefully before allowing their children to bring a smartphone to the dinner table. (2) _____, this suggests that it's fine for children to use their gadgets on social occasions. (3) _____, it prevents shy children from learning how to interact with other family members and makes it difficult for older relatives to begin a conversation with them. (4) _____, many games on these devices are incredibly addictive, and children play them too much already. (5) _____, dinner is a moment for a family to enjoy quality time together. Smartphones disrupt that happy atmosphere.

B Choose the best topic sentence (a-c) to complete three paragraphs from other student essays.

[1] ☐ Teenagers are so glued to their smartphones that they lose interest in talking to other family members. Sometimes they are so engaged with the screen that they don't even say hello to their parents when they get home from work.

- a Teenagers spend too much time playing games online.
- b Some parents are unable to communicate clearly with their kids.
- c Using technology makes teenagers antisocial.

[2] ☐ People can receive work emails or messages at the dinner table, in the bathroom, or even as they are getting ready for bed. This can increase stress levels at home when they should be trying to relax.

- a The biggest problem is the number of instant messages that people send and get about unimportant things.
- b It is no use thinking that someone's job stops when he or she leaves the office.
- c People spend too long on the computer in the office.

[3] ☐ Children and younger teens often stay glued to their devices late into the night. This makes them tired and even angry the next day, and that causes arguments. Some educators suggest that it is essential for parents to turn the house WiFi off at night. But is that a solution? Children can still access the Internet on their phones.

- a Many problems come from not getting enough sleep.
- b Parents are worried about the cost of all this technology.
- c The problems are worse in the evening than the morning.

C Write a new topic sentence for a paragraph in B, using your own ideas.

D Look back at lessons 1.1-1.5 in the Student's Book. Find the connection between the song lines and the content of each lesson.

E 4 Listen to the five question titles from the unit, and record your answers to them. If possible, compare recordings with a classmate.
