

READING: Future Plans at the School Fair

The school fair is next week, and the students are getting ready. Julia is going to prepare a dance performance because she and her group planned it last month. She is also going to bring decorations from home.

Mr. Clark, the teacher, thinks he will help the students set up the stage. He hasn't planned everything yet, but he knows he will organize the sound system. If the weather is good, the fair will be held outside.

Julia's friend Ben still doesn't know what to do. He suddenly decides he will sell snacks at the event. He also says he is going to design a small poster today because he already planned to practice graphic design this week.
