What Can We Learn from Our Ancestors?

There are many things that we can learn from the stories and experiences of our ancestors. These stories are told from generation to generation and have valuable information. Our ancestors were very connected to nature and knew how to cure many diseases with medicinal plants. For example, if someone had knee pain they knew that avocado leaves would help to relieve that pain. Our ancestors also told stories of myths and legends like "La Virgen de Oyacachi" and "Taita Chimborazo and Mama Tunguragua." These types of stories tell us about events that happened many years ago, and they also tell us about the things our ancestors believed.
