Professions Are Everywhere

People have different professions in society. A profession is a job that people do every day. Some people are doctors. They help sick people. Teachers are important because they teach students at school. Engineers are creative and solve problems. Nurses are kind and help doctors in hospitals.

My mother is a teacher. She is patient and friendly.
My father is an engineer. He is good with numbers.
I am a student, and I am interested in different professions.

In the future, I want to help people and be happy with my job.