

Animal Factfile:

Animal: Amur Leopard	Status: Critically Endangered
What it looks like:
Distribution: The Amur leopard lives in a small area of eastern Russia and northern China.	Approximate numbers remaining in the wild: <table data-bbox="997 1131 1279 1536"><tr><td>10000</td></tr><tr><td>9000</td></tr><tr><td>8000</td></tr><tr><td>7000</td></tr><tr><td>6000</td></tr><tr><td>5000</td></tr><tr><td>4000</td></tr><tr><td>3000</td></tr><tr><td>2000</td></tr><tr><td>1000</td></tr><tr><td>0</td></tr></table> There are about 130 left in the wild.	10000	9000	8000	7000	6000	5000	4000	3000	2000	1000	0
10000
9000
8000
7000
6000
5000
4000
3000
2000
1000
0
Diet: The Amur leopard eats deer and other small animals.	Why the animal is endangered: The Amur leopard is endangered because people destroy its habitat and hunt it.

Animal Factfile:

Animal: Amur Leopard	Status: Critically Endangered
What it looks like:
How can we help? The Amur leopard lives in a small area of eastern Russia and northern China.	Questions: How many Amur leopards are left in the wild? _____ _____ _____
What is the diet of Amur leopards? _____ _____	What is the conservation status of Amur leopards? _____ _____