Read the article about two restaurants and choose the correct answer for each question.

Restaurant Reviews

Our city is full of great restaurants, so do these two new places match the quality of what we already have? Our writer Martin Wellen tried both.

A perfect Thai experience

From the friendly people to the beautiful pictures on the walls, I got a great feeling in this new Thai restaurant, The Lotus. Our waiter gave us a lot of helpful advice on what to choose. My friend and I chose some small dishes such as fish soup and rice with vegetables to share, and each one was delicious. The cold salad with chicken was especially good. You can tell that the chef was well-trained. He made us feel like we were in Bangkok rather than London. The restaurant was busy but full of energy, and we spent a long time there enjoying our meal. The meal for both of us was extremely cheap. Go to this restaurant before everyone else discovers it and you cannot get a table!

Not quite a trip to Italy

I really wanted to like Cafe Gondola. I only live 15 minutes from the restaurant, so we walked there early on a Saturday evening. The place was almost empty, but we still waited ten minutes for our table to be ready. When we finally sat down, we waited for our food for another 30 minutes. I ordered a pizza. That's normally a good choice for an Italian restaurant. I was pleased it was hot enough, because I don't like cold pizza, but there was almost no cheese on it. The bread was nice and warm, but my friend wasn't happy with her pasta dish. They normally serve it hot, but it wasn't even warm when we got it. Not long after we finished eating, the nice waiter brought the bill. They wanted us to pay for our glasses of water. I didn't like that. I think this is wrong for restaurants to do. Unfortunately, I can't recommend this restaurant.

Martin Wellen is a chef and writes restaurant reviews for Food Times magazine.
