

Name _____

- A statement, or declarative sentence, tells something. It ends in a period: I like to play baseball.
- A question, or interrogative sentence, asks something. It ends in a question mark: What is your favorite sport?

A. Write statement if the sentence tells something. Write question if it asks something. Put the correct end punctuation at the end of the sentence.

1. We learned about fire safety at school today _____
2. It is important to have fire alarms that work _____
3. Do you check your fire alarms each year _____
4. Do firefighters teach safety classes at your school _____
5. Families should plan escape routes from their home _____

B. Reread this paragraph from “Room to Grow.” Underline one question. Circle the end punctuation of the question. Then rewrite the question on the lines below.

All of a sudden, Jill’s mother smiled. “Can you help us with a project?” she asked. “Our community wants to plant a garden. Our plot is very small. There is so much we want to grow.”
