The Evolution of the Pocket Computer

_____ present, _____ mobile phones have evolved from simple calling devices into powerful tools that operate at _____ speed of billions of calculations per second. While they offer incredible convenience, they also affect how we interact with the world around us.

Social Habits and Hazards

Many people suffer _____ a constant need for validation through social media likes. According _____ experts, this behavior can at _____ times lead _____ a feeling of isolation rather than connection. When we are out with friends, it is crucial to pay attention _____ the person sitting across from us rather than the screen _____ front of us. Constant scrolling can contribute _____ a decline in social skills and have _____ lasting effect _____ our real-world relationships.

A New Reality

I remember using a touchscreen _____ the first time; it felt like magic. However, we must remain aware _____ our usage habits, especially _____ night, when the blue light from the screen can disrupt our sleep cycles. Technology is a great servant, but a demanding master.

LIVEWORKSHEETS