This photo shows us three people. I think the individuals in the photo are students because they have books, and they might be in a classroom. Also, there are other school materials such as rules and pencils. I assume they are college students, probably in their twenties; moreover, the books look like university books as well.

The photo focuses on two of them: a man who is wearing a blue polo shirt and the woman who is wearing a cherry blouse. They probably will have a test because the man who isn't focused seems to be studying.

Furthermore, the man in blue is reading a book while the woman is listening to him; she probably is reading the book at the same time too. She might like drinking water because there is a bottle of water next to her.
