A different kind of holiday

If you like fresh air and seeing new places, why not go on a cycling holiday? In this article, we'll help you plan the perfect holiday on two wheels.

1 ___

Firstly, decide whether you want to travel on your own or with someone else. If you go by yourself, you can do exactly what you want. For example, you can change your plans more easily, but it can be more fun to travel with someone else. If you'd rather share the experience, make sure you choose the right person. You'll need to get on well with them and, of course, they'll have to enjoy cycling!

2 ___

You'll also need to decide where you want to go. There are plenty of great destinations for cycling holidays, but they're not all suitable for everyone. For example, the Atlas mountains are a popular choice, but you might find it hard. If you haven't got much experience, choose somewhere like The Netherlands. It's good for beginners because most of the country is flat and cycling is part of the culture.

3 ___

One of the advantages of cycling holidays is that you can usually avoid crowded tourist destinations. However, you should still think about accommodation when you're planning your route. If you're travelling out of season, you might find accommodation easily. But in the school holidays, you might not find anything if you haven't booked. After a hard day's cycling, you'll probably be too exhausted to look for hotels or campsites!

4 ___

You'll also need to think about your equipment, and the most important thing is the bike. If you've already got one, you can use that but, if you haven't, you can usually rent bicycles quite cheaply. You should also think carefully about the things you'll need. If you pack too much, your bike will be too heavy. Only take enough clothes for a couple of days because you can wash them and wear them again.

5 ___

Lastly, don't go anywhere without travel insurance, which is a type of document that protects you if you have an accident. In some countries, you have to pay your hospital bills yourself and it might cost thousands of pounds. Travel insurance is also useful if somebody robs you. The insurance company will replace the things that are stolen. It isn't usually expensive and you'll be a lot more relaxed if you've got it.

4 Read the text again. Choose the correct answer, A, B, C or D.

1 What does the writer say about travelling with other people?

- A It's not as much fun as travelling alone.
- B It's nice to share things with them.
- C It's important to have a good relationship.
- D It's easier to change your plans.

2 What is the writer's advice about choosing where to go?

- A Most holiday destinations are suitable for cyclists.
- B The Atlas mountains can be difficult for cyclists.
- C The Netherlands are popular with most cyclists.
- D Your holiday destination is not important.

3 Why is it important to reserve accommodation?

- A Many hotels and campsites do not accept cyclists.
- B Most campsites and hotels are closed out of season.
- C It will help you avoid busy tourist destinations.
- D It is sometimes difficult to find somewhere to stay.

4 What does the writer say about the things you take?

- A It's better not to have too much luggage.
- B It's cheaper to rent a bike than to buy one.
- C It's best to take plenty of spare clothes.
- D It's easy to pack too much for your trip.

5 What is the writer's opinion of travel insurance?

- A It's too expensive and it doesn't help you.
- B It's necessary for travel in some countries.
- C It can help you enjoy your holiday more.
- D It's a good way to replace your old things.
