Read the following passage and choose the correct answer to each of the questions.

If you walk into the streets and see someone throwing a plastic bottle on the ground, you'll probably get annoyed. But do we react in the same way when we see people throwing rubbish into the sea? We all know how rubbish ruins the environment on land, but we often forget the influence that it can have on environments like the sea, lakes and rivers, too.

First of all, water pollution looks terrible. Many beautiful beaches can become covered in rubbish when whatever we have thrown into the water comes ashore. Even rivers and lakes have some plastic bags and bottles floating in them.

Secondly, rubbish can hurt animals and birds that live in or by the water. If they see a plastic bottle, they may think it is food. However, when they try and eat the bottle, it can get caught in their mouth or stomach and stop them from eating anything else. Plastic bottles can also stop dolphins from breathing. Sometimes, fishing boats leave bits of fishing net behind in the water. Fish can get caught in these and die.

Finally, people forget that plastics contain chemicals that stay in the water. This is very bad for both fish and plants. If you eat fish containing these chemicals, then you can also get ill.

In conclusion, we need to worry about water pollution as much as we care about land or air. We should all protect the seas, lakes and rivers, and remember to take our rubbish away with us.

Question 29 (Question ID: 9-845797)

Four phrases/sentences have been removed from the text below. Choose the correct answer to complete the text. Write only the letter A-D in each blank.

A. As a result, the restaurant became very popular.
D. We just had to find a way to survive.
F. hundreds of cookbooks which are now available
G. the introduction of an incredible number of new dishes and ingredients

The Changing Face of Food

As global connections grow, major cities attract immigrants who seek better lives. They bring different cultures and foods with them, especially in places like London and New York.

New immigrants often start restaurants to introduce their food, but it's also a means of survival. Mr. Patel, who moved to London from India 20 years ago, shared "Q29.1..... We couldn't find work due to our lack of English, so we opened a restaurant serving food from our country. It was risky, but it worked out. Luckily, the British people are very open to foreign cultures. Q29.2..... We have no regrets." Now, Indian restaurants are common.

Other immigrants have had similar ideas. This has resulted in Q29.3...... On any London street, you can find a variety of cuisines like Indian, Chinese, Italian, and even Vietnamese.

Supermarkets now sell a wide range of international ingredients. There are also Q29.4...... Cooking foreign dishes is as common as preparing local meals.

Healthier eating has also influenced food choices. Mediterranean dishes use olive oil, Chinese stir-fries need little oil, and Indian spices have health benefits. With more options, people enjoy food that's both tasty and healthy.
